

Dr. Brittany Taylor is currently in her second year as a resident in the OU-Tulsa Community of Medicine psychiatry program. Hailing from Little Rock, Arkansas, she earned her medical degree from the New York Institute of Technology College of Osteopathic Medicine at Arkansas in 2023. During her time in medical school, she took the initiative to co-lead the Diversity Task Force, aiming to develop and implement programs that promote diversity and inclusivity for underrepresented students. For her involvement in community projects, she received the Population Health Certificate. Dr. Taylor remains dedicated to her community through collaborations with local churches and elementary schools. Her ultimate aspiration is to work as a community psychiatrist. Recently, she showcased a poster abstract on the advantages of Assertive Community Treatment (ACT) programs at the 2025 Clinical Vignette Symposium.
